[Chloe Hammond] It was kind of like where do I go because after college I was like where can this take me?

[Video Clip: Chloe smiling and waving.]

[Chloe Hammond] With DurhamEnable they helped me find a fulfilling career right after college. Not only did DurhamEnable help me with the CV, but they also helped me with a social life in a way because I joined the DurhamEnable forum where on a weekly basis I would help discuss things.

[Chloe Hammond] So, my job here at Heel and Toe is I am an ambassador. I do social media which includes Tik Tok, create all the videos, I take pictures.

[Chloe Hammond] DurhamEnable have helped me here with my role at Heel and Toe because I can show other disabled people that it is possible to be confident. If you start at DurhamEnable and you really, really shy then me being an ambassador at Heel and Toe, it shows that it can happen.

[Video Clip: Chloe talking to another Heel and Toe member of staff.]

[Chloe Hammond] The DurhamEnable programme is completely free. It is important that DurhamEnable exists because they help people with disabilities.

[Video Clip: Chloe entering the reception of Heel and Toe.]

[Chloe Hammond] I think that it is important for people with disabilities to succeed, that's all an able-bodied person wants we didn't choose to, for example my legs don't work as good as an able-bodied persons legs would work but why should that stop me wanting to succeed.
